Field of the Invention The present invention relates to a semiconductor memory device, more particularly, to a semiconductor memory device which includes a read verify operation by using an inversion signal. 2. Description of the Related Art In a conventional semiconductor memory device, there is such a layout as shown in FIG. 3, where a read verify sense amplifier and a read amplifying circuit as well as an input circuit are combined on one chip. To simplify the description of the layout, FIG. 4 shows a simplified equivalent circuit of the layout shown in FIG. 3. In FIG. 4, C1 is a word line connected to a memory cell MC, and N2 is a bit line connected to the memory cell MC. The memory cell MC has a current flowing between a source and a drain in response to a signal of the word line WL. An NMOS transistor N5 is provided between a gate of the memory cell MC and a ground. A voltage of a terminal VBB1 of a sense amplifier SA is set to a ground voltage. An output S1 of the sense amplifier SA is input to a gate of an NMOS transistor N7. An input S2 of the sense amplifier SA is connected to a gate of a PMOS transistor P1. The transistor P1 controls a path for current input to the sense amplifier SA. A configuration of the layout is explained below. A bit line N2 and a word line WL cross each other, where a memory cell MC exists
